Between Us

Surely Statesboro has never had such unique decorations at Christmas time as this year. Ring around town you see Cecile and Claude Howard have a huge Santa on their roof with his reindeer, and a spotlight shining on him. Helen and Doe Arundel have a Santa on their sun-dock with a large package under his arm, and about the most typical looking one I have ever seen. Folks seem to be almost breathless as they pass Nora and Harry Smith's house. Way up on the chimney they have a large blue cross and over the door they have miniature blue lights. The Roy Tyson home is very artistic, and the decorations are very beautiful. About the loveliest decorations inside is Josephine Jennings'. Mrs. E. B. Jennings has a pine cone and holly and by the fireplace where logs burn a basketful of pine burs. Wouldn't you like to be one of the judges for the prettiest decorations? The college set are all at home and already they have started with parties. Mrs. W. W. Williams, of Jacksonville, were week-end visitors in Statesboro. Intermission Party

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Arundel, on Savannah avenue, which is very beautifully decorated for the holiday season, was the scene of a lovely intermission party Monday evening when a number of couples attending the Girls' Cotillion Christmas dance at the Woman's Club gathered there for refreshments. Dr. and Mrs. Arundel were assisted in serving dainty Christmas sandwiches, cookies, home-made candies and coffee by Misses Janice Arundel and Kathryn Hodges.

Matrons Club
Mrs. B. H. Ramsey was the delightful hostess to the members of her club and a few other guests when she entertained Saturday afternoon at her home on Savannah avenue. Beautiful Christmas decorations were arranged throughout the home. Chinese chickens featured the afternoon's entertainment, and high score was won by Mrs. Ramsey's guest list included Messdames D. B. Turner, J. L. Mathews, Mrs. Fred Lanier, and Mrs. W. E. Edge, Lowell Mailard, Joe Watson, Jas. A. Brannan, J. E. Donohoe, S. W. Lewis, Homer Simmons, E. A. Smith, O. L. McLemore, Lewis Akins, Fred Lanier, and J. L. Johnson.

Entre Nous Club
Has Christmas Party
Members of the Entre Nous bridge club entertained with a delightful dinner and Christmas party Wednesday evening, with their husbands as guests. The four-course dinner was served at the Jackson Hotel, and beautiful decorations in white and blue were used on the table, which was lighted by blue candles. The club members, Alice Jo Lane, Edna Neville, Marguerite Mathews, Tina Ramsey, Maxana Foy, Sara Howell, Charles Layton, Dight Olliff, Harold Waters and Margaret Brown.

BROOKLET BRIEFS

MRS. F. W. HUGHES, Reporter.

BRUNSON-WYNN

Dignity, beauty and simplicity marked the marriage of Miss Juanita Brunson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wyatt, and Carl Wynn, of Charleston, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Wynn, of Port, Sunday afternoon, December 24, at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride here.

Miss Brunson was an honor graduate of the Brooklet High School in 1934. She was graduated from Georgia Teachers College in Statesboro and has taught in the Port High School for two years.

She wore a lovely teal blue two-piece frock trimmed in red fox fur with dubonet accessories and matching hat.

Mr. Wynn was graduated from the Port High School and was a star basketball player while he attended that school. He now holds an important job as electrician in Charleston, S. C.

Miss Brunson's only attendant was little Miss Romona Wynn, of Port, who lighted the candles. Miss Mary Ella Alderman, of this place, furnished the music for the occasion. Miss Ernestine Wynn sang "Because." The bride and groom entered the living room together and stood before a beautiful altar arranged with southern smilax and ferns banded on graduating pedestals on each side of the tall candelabras of white candles.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. L. Harrison, pastor of the Baptist church here, in the presence of immediate relatives and very close friends.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Wynn entertained with an informal reception, during which time Miss Juanita Wyatt, Miss Blanche Lee and Miss Annie Lois Harrison served cake and heavenly hash arranged by Dr. L. D. Alderman and Mrs. T. E. Daves.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Wynn left for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Smith Hostess At Lovely Tea

Outstanding among the season's social events was the beautiful tea given Friday afternoon by Mrs. E. A. Smith at her home on North Main street honoring her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Dodd Jr., of Greensboro, N. C. Guests were greeted by Mrs. H. P. Jones and received by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Dodd, who stood in the reception hall. Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. E. N. Brown were in the living room, and Mrs. Joe Watson assisted in entertaining in the dining room, where Misses Margaret Remington, Betty McLemore, Winifred Johnson, Jean Smith and Gladys Thayer served an ice course in which the red and white motif was used, individual cakes embossed with a spray of holly, nuts and coffee. A miniature white candle tied with a tiny red satin bow, placed in a red and white candy holder was arranged on each plate as a favor. Mrs. J. L. Mathews and Mrs. J. L. Johnson poured coffee. The tea table was overlaid with an exquisite lace cloth and red roses in a silver bowl formed a beautiful centerpiece, surrounded by tall white tapers tied with red satin bows in silver holders. A lovely Christmas arrangement of white leaves, red satin ribbons and red flowers was effectively used throughout the home. Mrs. A. L. Clifton presided over the register, which was placed in the sun room, and Mrs. C. P. Olliff was at the door as the guests departed. A delightful musical program was rendered throughout the afternoon by Mesdames Roger Holland, Waldo Floyd, Jim Moore and B. L. Smith. Mrs. C. H. Bedenbaugh also assisted in entertaining. Mrs. Smith wore a blue lace, and her flowers were sweetpeas and gladioli. Mrs. Dodd was attractive in aquamarine tulle with a corsage of red rosebuds. A large number of friends called during the afternoon.

Between Us

Folks seemed to try this year and find the most original cards possible, and some were truly works of art. Lavinia and Waldo Floyd had about the most attractive ones—a lovely picture of their home with little Waldo in one corner on skates and Virginia Lee in the other on her bicycle, the dog on the ground by the steps and Lavinia and Waldo above the picture of the house. It said "The House of Floyds Wishes You a Merry Christmas," etc. Sally and John Mooney had a picture of the entrance of their home, and written in Sally's handwriting were Christmas wishes from the John Mooneys Jr. Edward and Carolyn Kea Bernd, of Augusta, had very unusual cards. You know Ed works for the Augusta Chronicle, and he and Carolyn both had candid cameras pointing to you, and the pictures were splendid of them both. They, too, were wishing you greetings. If you didn't receive one of Percy Averitt's cards, you missed one of the thrills of Christmas. On opening the card a miniature Santa flew right out and around the rooms. So many cards from folks scattered far and near, and some person remarked, "Cards mean just as much to me as gifts."—Hold your breath, folks, for a wedding in the near future. The bride visits here frequently, but is soon to be a permanent resident. The groom is a bit large and handsome. It will be in the next few weeks.—If we started writing about gifts different ones received that are unusual, it would take pages; but Sara Alice Bradley received a very unusual bracelet: Dimes mounted on a white gold bracelet and the giver assured her she would never be broke as long as she wore the gift. Of course diamonds just went here, there and yonder. One which really meant something is gracing the right finger of a very popular and pretty brunette, and was from a tall blonde; both very popular in the younger set. Another one in the same set received a ring. Both say it means only friendship, but we are wondering. They, too, are seen together along with this other couple double dating.—All the king's horses and all the king's men could not budge Joe Pate Johnston to Savannah Friday. A goat had been ordered for Joe, and he found out about it, and his family were anxious he should go with them, but it just did not work; so Joe stayed home to welcome the new goat while the rest of the family made the trip.—Elizabeth Thomas wanted plenty for Christmas, but among the things ordered from Santa were potato chips; so as she looked around the chimney she remarked, "He didn't forget the potato chips."—This past week the writer received a copy of the Easton Messenger with a Christmas seal on it, and on opening the cover there appeared a short story by Julia Adams (who was one of our school teachers for several years). It was a splendid story, and we wonder if she won't soon go to short story writing.—Christmas day in the show, they ran a short of some on Stephens Foster's best loved songs and asked the audience to sing them as the words were shot on the screen. At the last chorus to Old Kentucky Home Hal Macon had them to cut the music off the screen and leave only the words; and do you know it turned out to be a regular community sing. Let's ask him for more of these.—Don't make any new year resolutions, and you won't worry about breaking them.—Will see you AROUND TOWN.

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Hendrix announce the birth of a son, Dec. 20. Mrs. Hendrix will be remembered as Miss Eileen Brannen before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Delightful Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston were hosts Monday at their home on Savannah avenue when they entertained with a family Christmas dinner. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Donaldson; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Donaldson and sons, George and Billy, of Tifton; Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Durden and sons, Bobby and Donald, of Graymont; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donaldson and little son, Bobby, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston.

MISS MOONEY HOSTESS

Miss Sara Mooney entertained delightfully Wednesday with a bridge luncheon at her home on North Main street. Lovely yuletide decorations were used in the home. A turkey luncheon was served, and bridge was played in the afternoon. For high score Miss Ann Edge, of Baltimore, Md., received bath powder. Covers were placed for Mesdames Claude Howard, William Shearouse of Augusta, Ralph Howard, and Misses Edge, Helen Olliff, Alma Cone, Aline Whiteside and Sara Mooney.
